THE SICKLE OF DESOLATION
A symbol of the Antichrist

Picture 8. Clavicula Nox. A Dragon Rouge symbol. The trident represents dark male principles, such as Shiva and Lucifer, and the circle represents dark female principles, such as Kali and Lilith. The union of the symbols represents the union of the energies and thus the elevation and empowerment of the magician. (from Eriksson 2001: 140). By T. Ketola.

AKOMAN – the Daeva of illuminated, intelligent thought. May be used to seek psychic power, develop the Will and Body of Light.

ANDAR – The daeva of rebellion, who brings the Black Flame. Summon Andar for workings which inspire the obtainment of wisdom, of knowing when to guide rebellions and to continually seek spiritual knowledge through practice.

ESHM - The Daeva of the Wounding Spear or the daeva of the Bloody Mace. Eshm is the root of Aeshma and the spirit of what is known as Asmodeus. Eshm is used for channeling and controlling sexual desire, anything which involves aggressive emotion or to accent this approach. You may use Eshm as a soldier, or as a worker wanting a promotion, or something similar.

The Key of the Night is drawn whenever you need to open the outer or the inner gateways. It should be used both in rites of invocation and when you evoke the spirits into visible manifestation. It also opens the gates to Dreamlands and lifts the Veil of the Night as you leave the world of waking. It is traced with a ritual blade covered with practitioner's blood which is empowered by the invocation of the Dragon's force. It is the Blood of the Dragon, which is contained within the Blood of Man, that opens the Gates of the Night and conjoins the worlds within with the worlds without.
