Baron Samedi is one of the spirits of Haitian Voodoo.

He is the spirit of the dead, sex and resurrection, and spends most of his time in the invisible realm of voodoo spirits.

He stands at the crossroad between the worlds of the living and the dead where he greets the souls of the recently departed, and leads them by the hand into the underworld, as it is only Samedi who can accept an individual into the realm of the dead. In voodoo imagery, he is usually depicted with a white top hat, black tuxedo, and dark glasses, to resemble a corpse dressed and prepared for burial in the Haitian style, and has a white, skull-like face.

Baron Samedi will intercede on your behalf with the spirits of the dead as you work this magic.

The Casting of Graveyard Spells

The basis behind these spells is that you are eliciting help of the deceased via their spirit and that their spirit will influence the minds of the persons who are needed to bring you the things you want.

When working these spells, wear black, white or purple clothes to help Baron Samedi cross over into this world.

Unless the spirit reaches out to you first, the only way to learn what the spirit will or will not do for you is to approach the grave, state your purpose, and listen with your mind.

If you wish to do harm, seek out the spirit of someone who has died before their time, because their spirit will be inclined to perform evil deeds with little persuasion.

If you wish to bring love into your life, seek out the spirit of a loved one (a relative or a deceased spouse) because their spirit, once invoked, would be inclined to help one achieve lasting love.

Finding the Right Spirit

Make your choice of the departed during daylight hours so you are organised in your preparations and do not attract attention.

If you have no particular spirit in mind, let yourself be guided to a grave that attracts you.

To learn more about the spirits in a particular graveyard, go to each grave site in turn.

Place a small offering of flowers on the grave, and speak to the spirit, listen closely to what is said, and then comply with the wishes of the deceased.

The Spells

The Money Spell

On the night of a new moon go to a graveyard, at the midnight hour or 3am, and find the grave of a very rich person.

Take with you a silver coin of any denomination.

Take some small stones and throw them gently upon the grave.

Speak quietly but firmly:

"Wake up, Wake up, Wake up from your slumber."

Then speak the following:

In the Name of Baron Samedi, Lord of the Dead, I (your name) do make a bargain with you (name of deceased).

You will prosper in the realm of the dead, and make amends for your past misdeeds, indiscretions and selfish ways for the kindness you will show this night.

Quickly now, move fast, obtain for me and give to me the fortune that you knew,

and I will leave a silver coin upon your grave.

At the count of three you will leave your place of rest and do what I have asked but first I will pay you a silver coin to bind you to our bargain.

(Place the coin in the earth at the grave, and count slowly to three.)

At the count of nine you will return to whence you came and resume your rest having fulfilled the bargain.

Count slowly from one to nine.

If you hear a strange sound, then the money will come, but if you are filled with a sudden terror the answer is no.

The Passionate Encounter Spell

On a night of a new moon go to a graveyard, at the midnight hour.

Take with you a red candle and a candlestick.

At midnight, you are to place on a simple altar (next to the grave) the candle and candle holder.

Light the candle.

Now comes the enjoyable part, bring yourself to a sexual climax and taking the discharged seed or juices carefully and with due reverence anoint the candle.

Whilst doing this say the following:

Listen you two, and listen good, in the Name of Baron Samedi, Lord of the Dead, I (your name) do make a bargain with you (name of the two people).

I give to you that which is now denied you.

I give you the fruits of my loins, and in return I ask for a passionate encounter of my own.

At the count of three you will leave your place of rest and do what I command.

I promise as my covenant to you that I will never forget what you have done for me, and will place flowers upon your grave on the first day of every month.

Count slowly to three.

At the count of nine you will return to whence you came and resume your rest having fulfilled the bargain.

Count slowly from one to nine.

Leave the candle burning.

Clean yourself up and resume your normal activity.

Spell for Protection

The ingredients you will need to work this protection spell are a circular piece of white paper, a black candle, and a cigar.

On the night of a new moon, write your tormentor's name on the paper in red ink and draw a circle around it.

At midnight or 3am, go to a graveyard and find the grave of a soldier or policeman, someone who had a protective role in life.

Take some small stones, throw them at the gravestone and say:

Listen, listen, listen (name of deceased), you who lay sleeping.

In the Name of Baron Samedi, I place this petition with you.

Place the paper on which you have written your request in the earth at the grave, then place the black candle on top and say:

This black candle is not for you, but for the one whose name I have given you.

Recite the 109th Psalm over the grave with hands suspended mid-air, fingers spread open.

Take a puff on the cigar, blow the smoke over the gravestone and say:

Protect me! Protect me! Protect me!

Light candle and let burn.

Say the name of your tormentor as you light the candle.

Spell for Love

The ingredients you will need to work this protection spell are a heart-shaped piece of white paper, a rose coloured candle, and a cigar.

On the night of a full moon, write the name of the person whose love you wish to gain on the paper in green ink and draw a heart around it.

If you have no one in particular in mind, just write "Someone to love."

At midnight, go to a graveyard and find the grave of someone who loved you.

Take some small stones, throw them at the gravestone and say:

Listen, listen, listen (name of deceased), you who lay sleeping.

In the Name of Baron Samedi, I place this petition with you.

Place the paper on which you have written your request in the earth at the grave, then place the rose coloured candle on top and say:

This rose candle is not for you, but for the one you will bring me.

Recite the 138th Psalm over the grave.

Take a puff on the cigar, blow the smoke over the gravestone and say:

Love me! Love me! Love me!

Light candle and let burn.

Say the name of your future lover as you light the candle, or just say "Someone to love."

If your lover is near he or she will be drawn to you.

Spell to Compel a Lover to Return to You

The ingredients you will need to work this domination spell are a square piece of green paper, a rose coloured candle, and a cigar.

On the night of a full moon, write the name of your absent lover nine times on the paper in red ink and draw a square around it.

Turn the paper over and write your name nine times.

Fold the paper three times.

At midnight, go to a graveyard and find the grave of someone who loved you.

Take some small stones, throw them at the gravestone and say:

Listen, listen, listen (name of deceased).

You who lay sleeping.

In the Name of Baron Samedi,

I place this petition with you.

Place the paper on which you have written your request in the earth at the grave, then place the rose coloured candle on top and say:

This rose candle is not for you, but for the one whose name I have given you.

Take a puff on the cigar, blow the smoke over the gravestone and say:

I command you, I compel you

Make (target's name) love me, as I love him

I command you, I compel you,

Let (target's name) return to me now!

Light candle, burn the paper and scatter the ashes to the wind.

The rest is up to the spirit to take care of.

Be patient for the results.

Repeat the spell once every 28 days.
